THE CZECH REPUBLIC IN NUMBERS

The Czech Republic has 2 wine regions – Morava and Čechy (Moravia and Bohemia), which are further divided into 6 sub-regions. There are 383 wine municipalities and 18,189 ha in 1,313 vineyard sites, which almost 17,700 growers manage. Most of the vineyards (96 %) lie in Moravia, the remaining 4% in Bohemia. 71 % of the total area of vineyards is planted with white varieties. There are around 1,300 registered wineries, from large companies to small family businesses, and thousands of small private winemakers.

The Morava (Moravia) Wine Region (308 wine municipalities, 17,529 ha of vineyards) has four sub-regions: the Znojemská Wine Sub-region (90 wine municipalities, 3,198 ha of vineyards), the Velkopavlovická Wine Sub-region (70 wine municipalities, 4,871 ha of vineyards), the Mikulovská Wine Sub-region (30 wine municipalities, 4,984 ha of vineyards) and the Slovácká Wine Sub-region (118 wine municipalities, 4,469 ha of vineyards). 7 ha are grown outside the vineyard sites.

The Čechy (Bohemia) Wine Region (75 wine municipalities, 659 ha of vineyards) is formed by the Mělnická Wine Sub-region (40 wine municipalities, 326 ha of vineyards) and the Litoměřická Wine Sub-region (35 wine municipalities, 322 ha of vineyards). 11 ha are grown outside the vineyard sites.

THE LAND OF WINE EDITION

This publication is part of a large project dealing with wine tourism. This edition was created in cooperation with the Wine Fund of the Czech Republic and the National Wine Center, with the contribution of the South Moravian Region, the South Moravian Tourist Authority, the Czech Tourist Authority – CzechTourism and the Czech Environmental Partnership Foundation, which will reliably guide you through the wine regions of the Czech Republic – the Morava (Moravia) Wine Region and Čechy (Bohemia) Wine Region. Maps are also part of the edition, including maps of the individual wine sub-regions in Moravia with a list of the most interesting places, events and the certified facilities. The wine guide of the Czech Republic and the map of Moravia are also available in English.

VINICULTURE IN THE CZECH REPUBLIC

Viniculture in the Czech Republic has about a two-thousand-year-old tradition. Already in the Middle Ages, our wines used to have a good name, noble and burgher houses were supplied by them, Poland, Silesia and the Imperial Court in Vienna were interested in them. Even today, Moravian and Bohemian wines are well known and belong among the best in Europe and the world.

The Celts were possibly the first people to cultivate the grape vine in our area. Wine in the territory of Moravia is tied to the Romans, specifically to the 10th Roman Legion of the Emperor Marcus Aurelius, which had a base near to the village of Mušov in southern Moravia during the second half of the 2nd century AD. Next news about the vine-growing is from the Slavic settlements in the times of Great Moravia, from where vine came to Bohemia. The Czech King and Roman Emperor Charles IV had a big credit for the development of viniculture.

The first surviving documents about wine are monastic chronicles and documents of the Czech rulers. The time from the 14th to 16th century is known as the golden age of Moravian viniculture. Further development of viniculture happened at the end of the 20th century. The restitution of vineyards and privatisation has led to the restoration of the family wineries and the establishment of new companies. The Wine Act from 1995 and its harmonisation with legislation of the European Union brought big changes. Present viniculture uses modern environmentally-friendly technologies and focuses on the production of wines that rank among the world leaders, which carry many of the awards at the world's most prestigious wine competitions. Moravian and Bohemian wines are characterised by their exciting range of aromas, rich agents and harmonious combinations of full taste with the fresh acids of white wine. The red wines have become popular recently. They are, thanks to modern technological processing, full and strong, but smooth and velvety, with a pleasant fruit aroma. Rosé wines – beautiful not only because of their colour, but also because of their exceptional youthful character – are slowly becoming the trend of the future. Its climatic conditions are similar to the Alsace (France), Weinviertel (Austria) or in the best wine-growing areas of Germany.

A wide range of varieties is typical for the Czech Republic. The largest areas are occupied by Grüner Veltliner, Müller Thurgau, Riesling, Welschriesling, Blaufränkisch, Pinot Gris and Saint Laurent – each variety in an area of more than 1,000 ha. Among the grown varieties are included several domestic new cultivated vines, for example, Moravian Muscat, Pálava, Aurelius and André, Cabernet Moravia and Neronet from the blue varieties. Wine tourism is developing hand in hand with viniculture.

VARIETIES

One of the reasons why the Czech Republic gives birth to wines of original taste and renowned diversity is the unusually rich varietal composition. In these vineyards, 35 varieties of white and 26 varieties of red wines listed in the State Variety Book besides this, other varieties can be found. However, one shall not forget that this wide range of Czech wines is also influenced by the combination of natural conditions and work of human hands. In the Czech Republic, there are more than 850 registered wineries. The specialty of domestic winemaking is the many varied composition of the vineyards even of small winemakers. Therefore, the resulting style of individual wines is not determined only by terroir, diverse terrain, differing soils and microclimate but also by the winemaker with his invention, experience, and application of traditional methods or new trends. In other words, original Czech wines are everything but insipid and mediocre.

Veltlínské zelené (Grüner Veltliner)

The aromas and tastes of the green-yellow wine reveal the composition of the vineyard's soil. Sometimes it is the aroma of linden flowers that prevails, or of bitter almonds; sometimes the character is spicy, tones of green pepper.

Müller Thurgau (Müller Thurgau)

A variety frequent in all northern wine-growing areas in Europe and overseas. Wines of a green-yellow colour and muscat-fruity aroma with tones of grapefruits or peaches are best young and fresh.

Ryzlink rýnský (Riesling)

One of the best quality varieties for white wines is grown all over the world. The wines stand out with a wide spectrum of aroma tones resembling linden blossom, peaches, apricots or citrus according to the soil type and a year.

Ryzlink vlašský (Welschriesling)

This fresh green-yellow wine with a medium-full taste and spicy acid is the most frequent variety in the Mikulov area. Fruit tones of black currant or gooseberry prevail, later the aroma of meadow flowers.

Rulandské šedé (Pinot Gris)

Harmonic wines from a variety with a French origin, spread all over the world, are usually full-bodied, smooth and have a long aftertaste. In the honey sweet aroma you can discover orange tones.

Chardonnay (Chardonnay)

This variety comes from Burgundy, France. It produces exceptional quality mineral-driven white wines and is widespread throughout the world. It has tones of apples, pears, citrus fruits, white flowers, roasted nuts or honey.

Frankovka (Blaufränkisch)

The blue variety grown especially in Central Europe. Wines have light and dark ruby colour with purple sparks, in the matured vintages you can reveal a typical pleasant spiciness and blackberry aroma.

Svatovavřínecké (Saint Laurent)

The second most cultivated red variety in the Czech Republic providing velvety bright dark red wines of harmonic taste, smelling of a sour cherry, black currant or prune, with a distinct and full taste.

CLASSIFICATION OF WINES IN THE CZECH REPUBLIC

General principles – In line with the current valid European and Czech regulations wines are classified into a range of categories. The basis of the classification is on the one hand the system of categorising wines according to the ripeness of the grapes at the time of harvest, indicated by the sugar content in the must and measured in degrees of the standardised must-meter (°NM) which states the content of natural sugar in kilograms per 100 litres of must, and on the other the classification system founded on the differentiation of wines according to their place of origin – the locality whence the wine originated. The European regulations have introduced the possibility of protection for designations of origin and geographical indications. In this context we find the terms “protected designation of origin”, which guarantees, inter alia, the exclusive origin of the grapes from a given geographical region and a specific classification of the wines (among these are quality wines, incl. wines with predicate and VOC wines) and “protected geographical indication”, into which our land wines fall. These indications do not need to be included on the labels.

WINE WITHOUT ORIGIN/WINE

This is a category which the customer previously knew under the designation of table wine. It applies to wines for the production of which grapes that were grown in any member state of the EU were used, and this from either wine grape cultivars, table or unregistered grape varieties. This is the lowest wine category. The yield in the vineyard is not subject to any limits. In some cases the wine may bear the denomination of a grape variety or vintage. These are simple and less extractive wines. Such wines with origins in the Morava and Čechy (Moravian and Bohemian) wine regions are scarcely available on the market.

WINE OF ORIGIN

Land wine

Land wine has to fulfil the following requirements: it is produced only from domestic grapes harvested in vineyards designated for quality wines of the given region from grape varieties authorised in at least one of the member states of the European Union or from varieties that are not registered in the State Variety Book, but from which land wine is authorised to be made (e.g. Damascenka, Modrý Janek, Bouquetriesling). The sugar level of the grapes at harvest must reach a minimum of 14 °NM. This wine is denoted by the names “moravské zemské víno (Moravian Land Wine)” or “české zemské víno (Bohemian Land Wine)”, and includes vintage and grape variety/varieties on the label. The grapes must come solely from the stated geographical region and the wine must have also been produced there. This category is sometimes utilised by winemakers to denote wines that have been produced from grapes which, although fulfilling the conditions for the production of quality wines, they have decided not to classify in the quality-wine category due to the small amount of grapes in the batch in question.

PROTECTED DESIGNATION OF ORIGIN (PDO)

This is a designation of an exceptional wine from a given region or location whose quality or characteristics are given due to the specific geographical environment. The PDO classification may only be applied to wines which come from a particular territory (region, specific location or, in exceptional circumstances, country), in which the quality or characteristics are exclusively or predominantly due to the particular geographical environment with its characteristic natural and human factors, and in which the production, processing and preparation of such a wine takes place within the defined area.

Part of the water is evaporated from the berries and the juice concentrate extractive substances. The must has to have min. 27 °NM, can be pressed even after 2 months if the sugar content reaches min. 32 °NM.

Selection of bortytised berries (výběr z cibéb)

Very extractive, sweet and rare wine made from grapes with min. of 32 °NM of sugar content. Berries in these grapes usually turned into raisins thanks to an extremely long period of ripening.

Quality wine and Quality wine with predicate must be classified by the Czech Agriculture and Food Inspection Authority.

Wine with original certification (Vino originální certifikace, VOC, V.O.C.)

Wines from varieties typical for a particular region, from selected vineyards, from grapes of a declared origin, with a typical aroma and taste – all of which meet the wines with original certification offered under the VOC label.

The labelling is used in parallel with the system of wine classification where the quality of wine is based mainly on the sugar content of grapes. The VOC system, with an emphasis on originality, authenticity and quality of wine, corresponds, for example, to French AOC, Italian DOC or Austrian DAC. The VOC category diversifies the offer of domestic winemakers. Winemakers themselves determine which wines are typical for the terroir, they also choose the vineyard sites and the most suitable locations. VOC wines are accompanied by strict controls on the origin of the grapes and the varieties allowed, the amount of production, cultivation methods and processing techniques. Before going to market, each bottle is then marked with the VOC symbol, usually a neckband or a logo sticker. These guarantee that you get exactly what you expect, which is really good and well-made wines with the typical taste and aroma of the region, which does not differ from year to year – wines that give the unique character of climate, soil and variety, of course in conjunction with the art of local winemakers.

The popularity of St. Martin's wine is growing every year and more than million seven hundred fifty thousand bottles are now opened. St. Martin's menu, with roasted goose and young wines, is prepared by a number of restaurants and a number of events are held: St. Martin's wines and goose festivals, St. Martin's wandering through open wine cellars, and, elsewhere, St. Martin's wines are blessed when young wines are baptized. CAMPAIGN TO SUPPORT WINE TOURISM

The Covid crisis affected both Moravian and Bohemian winemakers in 2020. In addition to the loss on wine sales in the spring due to the closure of restaurants and wine bars, hundreds of popular wine events were canceled before the summer holidays, and those in the summer and autumn had to be significantly reduced. There are many places in South Moravia, but also in Bohemia, where you can go for wine.

When visiting interesting interesting places, you can not only taste the wine, but also learn something interesting about it. The presentation of wine at wine events and the opportunity to not just buy wine but also experience it right where it originates is one of the foundations of wine culture. It is also one of the economic pillars of smaller wineries and deserves support from all lovers of quality Moravian and Bohemian wines now more than ever.

Let's make a toast and support wines in our national colours!

LABELLING THE WINE FROM THE CZECH REPUBLIC

The slogan "Wines from Moravia, Wines from Bohemia" has been encountered in the past twelve years on labels, promotional materials, during wine events and in the campaigns of the Wine Fund. Our winemakers started gradually to mark wines originating in Moravia or Bohemia with a uniform mark in January 2015. The top circular surface of the valve or screw cap is marked with a sector of the famous logo "Wines from Moravia, Wines from Bohemia" in the form of a glass in national colours (see picture). You will find it on wines with protected geographical indication and wine with protected designation of origin, on wines for the production of which only grapes originating from the Czech Republic have been used. According to surveys of public opinion and according to our winemakers, it follows that customers prefer Moravian and Bohemian wines and perceive them as better quality than from foreign competitors. The clearly visible logo guarantees the origin of Moravian and Bohemian wines, and makes the position of sellers of foreign wine that appear domestic at first sight more difficult. At the same time, the label supports all honest winemakers by reducing unfair competition.

RED WINES

High-quality red wine is not only a paradise for the taste buds, but also a pleasant relaxation when the weather outside is not quite full of optimism. However, there is one universal remedy for autumn depression and ground frosts, a sip of delicious red wine and a high quality, preferably dark, chocolate bar. Then, just sit comfortably and feel the perfect harmony of aromas and tastes. The Blaufränkisch and St. Laurent belong among the most typical varieties of our region. The Velké Pavlovce region is the heart of the blue varieties in the Czech Republic. The vineyards of the so-called Modré hory (i.e. blue vineyards) are mostly hilly and the soils are characterized by a high magnesium content. Warm winds blowing on the southern slopes accelerate the ripening of the grapes, and this suits the blue varieties, which are more demanding of heat and sunshine. Red wine from local vineyards is an ideal companion to Czech gastronomy. It is suitable for any preparation of dark meat, more spicy or grilled white meat, as well as for more substantial preparation of meatless dishes.

GOOD WINE AND GOOD FOOD: WE BELONG TOGETHER

The Wine Fund launched the very first thematic campaign aimed at deepening the perception of wine and food as a natural combination among the general public in 2018. They belong to each other from time immemorial, and just as people initially followed the simple rule of whether or not the combination tastes good or not, it is not a complex discipline today.

Because wine underlines the flavours and aroma of food and vice versa, fine wine is suitable for fine food, and for more distinctive or spicy food, we choose stronger, fuller wine. It is same with meat where we can help ourselves by sight - white meat to white, red to red, and rosé when we hesitate. Wine and food should be matched also visually, i.e. by colour. It's a simple aid, but it works very well. Wines with rich aromas are suitable for fragrant, spicy dishes. Sweet food is complemented by sweet wines, which should not miss freshness so that we would not have too much sweetness. But you can also try opposites, such as sweet wine for savoury food. The rule of character similarity does not work for foods with a sour taste and wines with a higher acidity, where both sensations reinforce each other, and the combination is usually problematic. But we know safely that dry wine with a higher acid is great for fatty food, as the acids in the wine dissolve fats and will lighten the food and raise it. Whether you choose to adhere to the centuries-proven rules or follow your imagination and taste buds, one thing is clear: quality Moravian or Bohemian wines turn every meal into a feast.

YEAR WITH WINE

January

If the weather is nice, work in the vineyard starts with vine pruning which usually ends in February. In the winery, wine is being prepared for bottling – it is treated.

May

Vine-growers treat young vines and fight the pests by careful spraying. They hope for a lot of sun so the vineyards will finish blossoming successfully. It is necessary to cultivate the soil and remove the weeds.

February

Machines are maintained, the seedlings for planting are arranged. The wine is under the supervision of the winemaker, who leaves his unique signature on it. It is necessary to finish the pruning, and collect and burn unwanted canes in the vineyard.

June

The vegetation period begins – after lush blossoming shoots appear. Vine-growers tuck in the summer shoots and remove the lateral shoots.

March

Spring in the vineyard starts with ploughing the soil that protected individual vine plants in winter. The soil is cultivated, shoots are tied to the wire support, and other small tasks are carried out.

July

By pruning the shoots and excess grapes vine-growers reduce the load on the vine plants and save their energy for the production of healthy fruit. It is necessary to weed and spray the vineyard.

October

While some stum are already fermenting in cellars, late-season varieties are just harvested. Wine-makers watch over the grapes intended for ice wine production.

December

A beautiful time when the winemaker and his friends can raise glasses of young sparkling wine. The year-long toil was worth it and now it is time to meditate on life and to plan the future.

April

In addition to routine work in the vineyard, winemakers evaluate wines, discuss them and take part in local and regional wine exhibitions. Most of the wine has already been treated and is prepared for bottling.

August

The wineries prepare for the upcoming harvest. Inspection in the vineyard is full of expectations. In ideal weather conditions the first harvest can start at the end of August.

November

In vineyards, soil is ploughed to the plants. In the winery, winemakers treat and rack wine. On St. Martin's day (11. 11.) young wines are drunk under the name “Svatomartinské” for the first time. Events take place throughout the CR to celebrate them.

WINE TOURISM SERVICES CERTIFICATION

The wine areas with mosaics of vineyards, cycling paths, cellar lanes, wine cellars and wine stores attract thousands of visitors each year. But how can you orientate yourself in the offer of services? Where will they offer wine for tasting to you, which winery will welcome you with open arms and where is the best to stay overnight? The advice is simple – look if there is a certificate.

The places, whose owners understand the requirements of the modern age and their menu of services show taste, ingenuity and professionalism, differ from other similar buildings, an enamel sign with logo of Vína z Moravy or Vína z Čech (Wines from Moravia or Wines from Bohemia) and Czech and English writing “wine tourism certification”. Lists of these facilities, together with their brief introduction, contacts and logo or photo, can be found in this publication after the chapters introducing the wine sub-regions. All comply with the mandatory requirements for a given category and a set number of optional criteria. Certification is awarded to five types of facility. For all presentation at www.vinazmoravy-vinazcech.cz, distribution of promotional materials about wine and providing information about wine tourism are obligatory. For foreign visitors, materials in one world language are prepared.

What will the 79 certified wineries offer you?

A certified winery has a range of at least 90% of domestic wines from at least 6 varieties, among which are wines typical for the region. At least part of the wines is listed in CAFIA (SZPI) or has the VOC sign and awards from a selected domestic competition. They will allow you to explore the vineyards or winery. Of course, there is the possibility of buying wines and wine packaging.

What do the 85 certified wine cellars offer?

The structure of wine is, according to the rules for certified wineries (with the exception of awards of the competition), in the offer of certified cellar. They will offer wine tasting and other programmes to you here. You can choose hot or cold snacks for wines served from corresponding glasses. Certified cellars have simple and clean equipment and a matter of course is hygienic facilities.

What can you expect in the 30 certified wine stores?

It does not have to be only a wine store, but, for example, a wine store linked with the information centre, but with trained staff for wine presentation, sommelier needs and other services. A certified wine store offers wine tasting of at least two bottled wines for at least 7 months of the year, from June to September, at least four days a week. In addition, regularly organizes or, on order, arranges wine tasting or other programmes. Offers at least 40 types of bottled and clearly priced wines, where at least 70% comes from the Czech Republic and at least 30% from the given sub-region. You will often meet the offer of other regional products.

What services do the 16 certified restaurants with wine or wine bars offer?

You will be presented with a bilingual food and drinks menu with a sufficient selection of bottled wines, at least 20 wines from the given sub-region and at least four bottled wines by the glass at a certified restaurant. You will learn not only about the origin, but also the basic analytical value of wines. A qualified person will help you with their selection. At least half of the menu is traditional meals of rural cuisine from fresh products and food according to the seasons, each with a recommended wine. The restaurant organizes special wine and culinary events at least twice a year, e.g., a menu with more courses combined with wines.

What do the 40 certified places of accommodation offer?

Certified accommodation differs by wine themes from regular hotels and guesthouses – connection with viticulture and wine is obvious at first look here. This accommodation is located either directly in the winery or by the wine cellar, wine store or restaurant oriented at wine and their capacity does not exceed 50 beds. You will get information about winemaking in the region and an overview of the main tourist and wine services and events from the staff. A matter of course is cleanliness and a breakfast buffet.

SEPTEMBER – VINTAGE

Grape harvest is the most important part of the wine grower's year. Schedule of harvesting both early and late-season varieties is determined according to weather; ideally, with the content of natural sugars and acids in optimal ratio. From vineyards, the grapes are carefully transported to the winery where they are destemmed and pressed.

There is only part of the list of offered services in the text, you will find the exact wording of certification conditions at www.vinazmoravyvinazcech.cz.

WHERE TO GO FOR OUR WINES

A wide range of varieties, a large number of wine-makers, the variability of vintages and the types of wines produced in the Czech Republic open up a great area for exploring to wine lovers. If you do not have enough time for such investigation, we recommend visiting the “shop window” of Moravian and Bohemian wines – the Wine Salon of the Czech Republic in Valtice. In the basement of the chateau, you can taste a sample of a selection of the 100 best wines that represent all Czech wine sub-regions. Another option is to visit the tasting of wines from many organized competitions – international or regional – or just one of the countless local tastings. You can meet the winemakers directly during the days of open cellars. It is possible to visit certain wine municipalities within the services of open wine cellars anytime during the summer season, and there will be always, at least, one wine cellar where it will be possible to taste and buy wine. You have the possibility of exploring several wine areas through wines from the VOC appellation system.

If you visit the wine-growing regions in the autumn, do not miss the opportunity to taste “burčák” (half-fermented grape must), its drinking is not common around the world. Vintage festivals are associated with it; some of them have a historical character and a rich cultural programme (in Znojmo, Mikulov, Mělník etc.). The tradition of winemaking can be evoked at festivals “zarážání hory” (closing the vineyard) and wine blessing. Another wine attraction of the Czech Republic is St. Martin’s wine – young wine placed on the market during the feast of St. Martin (11. 11.), often associated with serving goose specialities. In the spring, you can admire the wide variety of colours, scents and flavours of rosé wines, of which the greatest celebration takes place in Prague on the 1st of May. (Villa Richter and St. Wenceslas Vineyard).

The popularity of wine in the Czech Republic is rising and with it the development of wine tourism goes hand in hand. You can choose to visit a series of wine facilities. Wineries, wine cellars, wine stores, restaurants and accommodation certified in the framework of the wine tourism project offer a guaranteed level of service, including language skills. You will meet most of them during tours in the dense network of local wine trails. Many educational wine trails leading directly to the vineyards and wine trails dedicated to some varieties are devoted to wine. Worth visiting are Moravian wine cellar lanes. You can use a mobile application to explore them. You can see the beauty of the local wine landscape, even from a height – from a number of recently built lookout towers, one of which even has the shape of a wine glass. If you are interested further in the history of the viniculture, do not miss the interactive exhibition about our, and also world, viniculture at the Chateau Mikulov. Do not forget to taste the local varieties, for example, Pálava, Moravian Muscat, André or Cabernet Moravia.

WELCOME TO MORAVIA

The Morava (Moravia) Wine Region is located in the South Moravian and Zlín region, a small part of it is also in the Vysočina region. The oldest viticultural area in the Czech Republic is proud of the wine-growing traditions from the days when the Roman legions temporarily settled under Pálava, and soldiers established the first vineyards on its slopes. Moravia was, due to climatic conditions, considered to be an area with excellent prerequisites for the production of white wines with an interesting range of aromas and spiciness for a long time. Fresh acids underlining the harmony of the aromas and flavours stimulate the repeated sipping of this harmonious wine. Blue varieties for the production of red wines received less attention, but they already had good conditions in some sub-regions before, and in recent years, thanks to the warmer weather and modern technology, their importance is increasing. Maps of the Morava (Moravia) Wine Region changed several times, most recently in 2004, when the wine law adjusted the division of the wine sub-regions. 10 wine regions existed until then: Brněnská, Bzenecká, Kyjovská, Mikulovská, Mutěnická, Podluží, Strážnická, Uherskohradištská, Velkopavlovická and Znojemska. The naming of the known wine trails comes from their names. Since 2004, the Morava (Moravia) Wine Region has been divided into four sub-regions: Znojemska, Mikulovská, Velkopavlovická and Slovácká.

WINE REGION MORAVA (MORAVIA) IN A NUTSHELL

MOST FREQUENT VARIETIES IN MORAVIA

The most important wine region in the Czech Republic stretches from Znojmo to Uherské Hradiště. It consists of four Wine Sub-regions: Znojemska, Mikulovská, Velkopavlovická and Slovácká. It covers 17,529 hectares of vineyards, which represents 96 % of registered vineyards in the Czech Republic.

The Morava (Moravia) Wine Region is the area, according to legends and archaeological sources, with the oldest viticultural and vinicultural tradition in the country. It lies around the 49th parallel, as well as the wine region of Champagne or the best wine regions of Germany. It consists of 308 wine municipalities and 1,142 vineyard sites, which are managed by over 17,618 vine-growers. The most municipalities and vine-growers can be found in the Slovácká Wine Sub-region, the largest area of vineyards is in the Mikulovská Wine Sub-region, close behind it is the Velkopavlovická. The largest wine municipalities are Velké Bílovice, Valtice, Mikulov and Čejkovice.

According to a six-year measurement at the Wine Breeding Station in Velké Pavlovice, the average annual temperature reaches 12.4 °C, the average annual precipitation is 463 mm and the approximate annual sunshine duration is 1,700 hours. Although the growing season is shorter than in Western Europe, in most years, it is characterized by a higher heat intensity of the summer months, which allows the cultivation of varieties with late ripening grapes. The ripening process is slower, so more aromatic substances are concentrated in the grapes. Varietal representation almost copies the overall statistics of the Czech Republic – dominated by Grüner Veltliner and Müller Thurgau – the other ranks are divided by Riesling, Welschriesling, and from the red varieties, Blaufränkisch and St. Laurent.

MORAVA (MORAVIA)

Wine Region

ZNOJEMSKÁ

Wine Sub-region

The Znojemska Wine Sub-region includes the western part of South Moravia from Podyjí and the eastern slopes of the Českomoravská vrchovina over the Dyje valley, Jevišovka, Jihlava, and other smaller rivers to Rajhrad by the Brno city. It is the Kingdom of aromatic white wines, where the uncrowned king is Grüner Veltliner, followed by Müller Thurgau, Riesling and Sauvignon Blanc varieties. The composition of the soil and climatic conditions suit Pinot Gris, Treminer, Pinot Blanc or muscat varieties such as Moravian Muscat and Irsai Oliver. The proportion of blue varieties is smaller, but the original St. Laurent, Blaufränkisch and Pinot Noir, from the area of Dolní Kounice, has an excellent reputation. Znojmo, the Royal Town, which celebrated the 790th anniversary of its founding in 2016, is the wine centre of the sub-region. When walking to meet wine, you will discover a number of interesting places, from the Znojmo medieval underground through extensive cellars and a wine museum in Louka Monastery, up to the picturesque Painted Wine Cellar in Šatov. The Znojmo region is the cradle of wine tourism. You can ride around vineyards and wineries with a specialized wine bus Vinobus in the high season. Tasting stands are waiting for you in many places: at the Rajská vineyard in Znojmo, at the famous vineyard Šobes in the Podyjí National Park, at the Castle Lampelberg, in Hnanice, in the wine cellar lane in Chvalovice or on the cycle paths in the Staré vinice vineyard above Havraníky village. A whole series of events is connected with wine. For example, the VOC Znojmo Wines Festival in 8 May, where the wines of the first-ever appellation system in the Czech Republic from the Sauvignon Blanc, Riesling and Grüner Veltliner varieties enter the market every year. Not to be missed are the wines at the Znojmo wine tasting in Znojmo in March, the Conquering of the Dobšice Cellars, the Znojmo Historical Vintage Festival and the Burčákfest in September.

5 NOVÝ ŠALDORF AND SEDLEŠOVICE – two well-known wine villages south of Znojmo formed shortly after the founding of Louka Monastery in 1190 at the fords across the Dyje river. The local residents dug more than 200 wine cellars during six centuries. The most famous area of the Modré sklepy is located on both sides of the road facing south, a historic press from the 18th century stands in the centre. The cellars are named after the special sandstone, spread through with layers of blue-grey clay colour. Cellar lane in Nový Šaldorf-Sedlešovice, with 200 cellars, is one of the largest and most picturesque in Znojmo. Local winemakers united into the association Šaldorfské sklepy, and you can taste and buy their excellent wine directly in the cellars of individual winemakers.

6 PAINTED WINE CELLAR – wine cellar decorated with fantastic sculptural paintings excavated in the sandstone slope above Šatov down the road to Havraníky. Although the Painted Wine Cellar is a wine cellar, wine was never produced or even stored here. It should have served as a private wine room and a place to relax. Both sides of the main halls and walls of the 5 adjacent lounges are decorated with colourful sculptural paintings of mermaids, dwarfs, alpine landscapes and other motifs, created by Maxmillian Appeltauer, a Šatov native. He worked in the Painted Wine Cellar Sunday after Sunday for 36 years and was even injured in the Second World War, when he lost an arm, which did not stop him. He was holding a container of paint in the left armpit, a brush in the right hand and by the candles attached to his hat, which lit the area in front of him.

Wines of Jaroslavice winemakers can be tasted in August, when the Day of Open Cellars is. A wine rarity is the cellar with the wine archive of company Znovín Znojmo. The mysterious labyrinth of mutually interlocked manually-dug tunnels hides officially the oldest collection of vintage wines in the Czech Republic. #tasteznojmo

Let the taste of Znojmo carry you away

It is not just the wine, beer and pickles, that make the town famous and add to its uniqueness. Znojmo is, above all, a place, where history breathes upon you. Learn about its romantic nooks and crannies, one of the largest underground labyrinths in central Europe and a range of other significant sights. You will be enchanted with the nature surrounding the town, which is a target destination for tourists, cyclists, and boaters. Enjoy the beauties of the National Park Podyjí or the lavish vineyards girding the town. And you are welcome at any one of the cultural events that take place here all year round.

Znojmo, the second largest town in the South Moravia, is a historically unique place, lying in an impressive location on the river Dyje. The first written record of Znojmo dates to the 11th century – in 1226 Znojmo was granted the status of a Royal City by Ottokar I of Bohemia. History emanates from the city at every step. Burghers' houses and palaces dotting the whole urban conservation zone – declared in 1971 – make up an exceptional textbook of all architectural styles. Znojmo also boasts two National Monuments – the Rotunda of St. Catherine, and the Louka Monastery.

Experience Znojmo with all of your senses

Experience the distinctive atmosphere of cultural and social events taking place in Znojmo throughout the year. The most notable of all is undoubtedly The Znojmo Historical Vintage, a magnificent festival of wine and the greatest festival of its kind in Czechia. The May festival, the summer Music Festival Znojmo, the Beer festival in June, or Pickle festival in August too are unmissable. No less sought-after are wine events including wine degustation, such as wine tasting, or open-cellar events in wine villages close to and around the town. The Town Theatre also offers a rich programme all year round and, on the summer break, the August Festival Znojmo lives and breathes the stage drama.

Znojmo is the heart of a winegrowing region

Znojmo prides itself in having introduced the first system for certifying wines in the Czech Republic, the VOC – Vína Originální Certifikace (Wines of Original Certification). This Appellation System applies only for three most typical grape varieties in the Znojmo Region: SAUVIGNON, RHINE RIESLING AND GRÜNER VELTLINER. The tradition of wine cultivation and wine production in this area dates back to the 9th century. The ubiquitous vineyards and wine cellars in and around the town are an ideal destination for tasting VOC-certified wines. To reach them, you can use Vinobus, the first bus route in Czechia going directly to the winemakers and vineyards. The most illustrious vineyard is Šobes, which lies in the region of the National Park Podyjí, above the picturesque meanders of the river Dyje.

It is a permanent tasting exhibition of best Moravian and Bohemian wines. The collection is selected annually in the contest The Wine Salon – National Wine Competition of the Czech Republic, the highest and the most all-encompassing national wine competition. Wines registered in the Salon must be made exclusively from local grapes and must pass the system of nomination exhibitions. 100 wines get the right for their bottles to be signed with the gold medal of the Wine Salon of the Czech Republic every year. The wines are then presented to the public in Valtice, each of the exhibited samples has complete information about the wine and its producer. You can taste all of the opened samples or you can choose a wine tasting accompanied by a sommelier in the tasting programmes. | www.salonvin.cz

Exhibitions document the development of market gardening and fruit growing, viticulture and viniculture in the Czech lands. You can see mainly herbal and historical examples of types of seeds, of vegetables and flowers, logs of wood, moss and cones. An attractive part is devoted to the environment where the magical landscape of the Lednice-Valtice area is the focus. primordial gem of our ancestors VENUS OF VĚSTONICE

An abundance of game and a favourable climate attracted the first inhabitants of South Moravia half a million years ago. Archaeological findings from a number of places confirm that the mammoth hunters, the 1st farmers and cattle breeders lived here. Villages of metal workers of Bronze and Iron Age arose here. Findings confirm the presence of Romans, Celts, Germanic tribes and nomadic Huns and Vandals. Dolní Věstonice has become famous because of systematic surveys of archaeological sites from the Early Stone Age. Prof. Karel Absolon, a researcher in the area of caving and archaeology led them 1924–1938. The little sculpture of a Palaeolithic beauty was found in the remains of a fire at the top of a prehistoric place between Dolní Věstonice and Pavlov on 13. 7. 1925. An unknown creator moulded it from a mixture of clay approximately 25,000 years ago.

The Venus of Věstonice statue, 11.5 cm tall and 4.3 cm wide at the hips, is not only unique in the world, but it also gets recognition as the oldest ceramic work in the world. The original is in the possession of the Moravian Museum in Brno in the collections of the Anthropos Institute. A copy can be seen directly in Dolní Věstonice, in the permanent exhibition The Age of Mammoth Hunters.

Vinařství Nad Sklepy

The "Nad Sklepy" winery is a continuation of a family wine tradition dating back to the middle of the 20th century. The wines are almost exclusively predicated. The winery philosophy is semidry and semisweet, preferably light and juicy, wines with a typical "Pálava" bouquet of foreign fruit or blooming meadows. The wines are often enriched with residual sugar, but always accompanied by a pleasant acidity, connected to the great maturing of grapes in the Pálava area.

Major cellar upgrading took place in 2008–2009, when Vít Dočkal bought new technology for the processing of grapes, the system of controlled fermentation and bottling, and introduced modern methods of vinification. Wines from Vít Dočkal are almost exclusively predicated.

A winery living its own life, subjecting everything to nature, can be found in a more-than-idyllic environment. It is located in the heart of the Protected Landscape Area and Pálava Biosphere Reserve and adjacent Dunajovice Hills. The philosophy of viticulture is based on a small amount of vines, an environmentally friendly approach with a maximum reduction of chemical input. "We make wine in the vineyard." Everything begins and ends in the vineyard. This distinctive approach of people is extremely important for producing our wines.

I make about 10,000 bottles a year in my young micro-winery. It is just enough to be able to check the quality of each of them, to oversee the entire production process and, above all, personally meet as many of my customers as possible. I love watching the emotions that my wine evokes in people. Nothing in the world can beat the feeling when I see that you like it. The vast hectares of the Drnholec vineyards belong to my sister and are lovingly cared for by my vine-grower and nephew in one person. You can taste the best fruits of his (and of course my) work in Víno77.

MORAVA (MORAVIA)

Wine Region

VELKOPAVLOVICKÁ

Wine Sub-region

The fertile lowlands, which stretch from Brno to Židlochovice, Hustopeče, Velké Bílovice and Velké Pavlovice, belong among the sunniest places of the Czech Republic. Grüner Veltliner is at the top of the scale of the most grown varieties, but Blafränkisch and St. Laurent, in third and fourth position, suggest that the Velké Pavlovice region is famous for red wine. You will not find so many vineyards with blue grapes as right here in any other Moravian wine sub-region. Worth mentioning (and mainly tasting!) is Zweigelt or the André variety cultivated directly in Velké Pavlovice. White varieties, such as Müller Thurgau, Welschriesling and Pinot Gris, have good conditions here as well.

The landscape around Bořetice, Kobylí, Němčičky, Velké Pavlovice and Vrbice is called Modré hory (blue vineyards). The varieties with blue grapes are grown in more than half of the vineyards and wines of the three most typical varieties of the sub-region, Blafränkisch, St. Laurent and Blauer Portugieser, have the specific label of VOC Modré hory.

What should you not miss? For example, extensive complexes of wine cellars, reminiscent of small villages, such as the area under Kraví hora in Bořetice, a cellar lane in Kobylí or Belegrady in Velké Bílovice, where the names of the streets and squares come from wine-growing history or bear the names of the vine varieties. A popular stop for wine lovers are the Templar cellars under the medieval forts in Čejkovice and the town of Hustopeče, with a curious statue of wine yeast. You can taste local wines at a variety of events. For example, at the spring Festival of Almonds and Wine in Hustopeče, at the turn of March and April, when visiting wine festival From Cellar to Cellar in Velké Bílovice, at the public tasting at the international Grand Prix Vinex competition in May, at the Velké Pavlovice vintage festival in September, at the Burčák festival in Hustopeče or at the St. Martin's wine tasting in Brno in October.

VELKOPAVLOVICKÁ Wine Sub-region

1 SLAVKOV – a city, whose name in German form is Austerlitz, is known thanks to the Napoleonic Battle of Austerlitz (2. 12. 1805) to the whole world. The truce between France and Austria was concluded after the battle in the Baroque castle. You can see historical interiors, the remains of the former early Gothic commandery of the Teutonic Order, preserved in the deep underground of Austerlitz castle. The golf course of the Golf Club Austerlitz extends to the park. The Peace Memorial, Art Nouveau stone chapel, a memorial of wars and their victims, is on the hill above the village Prace. The decisive fights of the battle took place here. The building with multimedia exhibition of the Museum of the Brno Region and a café is in the surrounding park area. The Peace Memorial Ceremony set to honour the dead as the climax of the commemoration anniversary of the battle every year is at the turn of November and December.

2 KRUMVÍŘ – the first historical mention of the village is from 1350. Although Krumvíř has a scratch plough and wine knife in its seal, the written mention of the wine tithe is from 1723. The series of cellars are the pride of the village, many of them have a painted porch. Krumvíř is also famous for pottery, wood carving and scratched egg production. You can come for example to visit the folk festival Kraj bez stínu or costumed feast of St. Bartoloměj. | www.krumvir.cz

3 BRNO – the 1st written record of Brno's vineyards is from the 13th century. Vineyards were planted around the slopes of uptown Brno, many of them have various attributes of wine grapes, wine knives and baskets in their logos. The grapevine has even returned on the south slopes of Špilberk, where a new vineyard with Pinot Gris and Riesling were planted. Špilberk, the most famous prison of the Habsburg monarchy, is the seat of the Brno City Museum now. The casemates with a prison exhibition are one of the most attractive tourist sites.

The Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul and the Old Town Hall belongs to another dominant of the city. The local arched passage, with the famous Brno dragon, is decorated with a beautiful late-Gothic stone portal. You can see a bird's eye view of the historic centre from the town hall tower with Renaissance gallery. You will also find Villa Tugendhat in Brno. A masterpiece of functionalist architecture from the German architect Ludwig Mies van der Rohe from 1929–1930, which was registered on World Heritage List of UNESCO in 2001. Modern architecture lovers admire Brno's Exhibition Centre, which is thanks to a unique collection of functionalist architecture, one of the most elegant exhibition areas in the world. Motor racing circuit – the Masaryk Circuit, the venue of the annual motorcycle Grand Prix, golf course in Jinačovice, the zoo or museum of prehistory pavilion Anthropos represent Brno as a city of entertainment and leisure. Bystrc, Chrlice, Maloměřice, Medlánky, Obřany and Tuřany belong to the wine villages. You can find smaller vineyards in the Vinohrady district, where nearly all the streets of modern housing are named after the wine municipalities of South Moravia.

4 HUSTOPEČE – vineyards around Hustopeče were among the largest in the Czech lands in the past. They were owned by the nobility, monasteries and wealthy citizens from Brno and Olomouc. The city used to have its own, very famous, horenský soud (wine court) against whose decision it was not possible to appeal. It stood on the place of today's bank, where you can still see the original stone coat of arms on the facade. The citizens had the wine cellars under their houses like elsewhere. The Renaissance house U Synků, below which 2 parallel cellars have survived, on the upper part of the square is from 1579. If you want to taste Hustopeče wines, then you can either visit the Vinotéka Vinařů Hustopečska (Wine Shop of Hustopeče Region Winemakers), or go to one of the wine events. A number of them take place in Hustopeče every year, from the Slavnosti mandloní a vína (Almond and Wine Festival), through the O Hustopečskou pečeť (Hustopeče Seal) to the Krajem vína – Expedici Krajem André (Land of Wine – Expedition through the André Region), the Burčák Festival, the St. Martin's Wine and Goose Celebration and the World Wine Duel. You will discover a quaint curiosity in the courtyard of the house U Synků – a sandstone sculpture of wine yeasts. The circumference is 167 cm and it is 69,230 times bigger than the live original. Hustopeče has gained the Czech record for the biggest art prints of a living organism. The modern church of St. Wenceslas and St. Agnes of Bohemia dominates Hustopeče. Its predecessor, the late-Gothic church of St. Václav, was damaged during the Second World War. The new church, an interesting two-storey building in the shape of a spiral, was ordained in 1994. Copies of saved architectural elements of the old church are integrated into the interiors, the peak of the tower is decorated with a stylized St. Wenceslas crown.
www.hustopece.cz

5 VELKÉ PAVLOVICE – the Velké Pavlovice region is rare because of the dominance of blue varieties, which due to the locality's open position to the south has almost 1,800 hours of sunshine a year. The best red wines in Central Europe are produced here because of this. Velké Pavlovice is written into wine history mainly due to the breeding station, which created 4 new essentially Czech varieties. Aromatic Pálava and Aurelius represent white varieties, Agni and André, wine with aroma of forest fruits, blue varieties. André was bred by crossing varieties Blaufränkisch and Saint Laurent in 1961, named after Ch. K. André (1763–1831). He founded the 1st association for fruit breeding in the world in Brno, and sparked the interest for obtaining new varieties of cross-breeding. You will discover a grape press from 1816, a variety of ancient wine cellars and presses, which give the town and surrounding vineyard countryside its unique character, in Velké Pavlovice. The most interesting architectural monument of the city is the Baroque granary, a technical building from 1770–1780, now Hotel Lotrnský, in addition to the Baroque church of Our Lady's Assumption and several small religious monuments. You can go on a short trip to St. Urban chapel, which stands only a few hundred meters from the Slunečná tower in the vineyard site Nadzahrady or to the modern cellar lane, which grew at the foot of the most famous Velké Pavlovice vineyard Staré hory in 2012. The educational trail, Zastavení v kraji vína a meruněk, (Stopping in the Region of Wine and Apricots) will take you to the “drunk” cellar houses in this lane.

www.slechtitelka.cz | www.velke-pavlovice.cz

6 KOBYLÍ – a hectare of vineyard was more expensive than 20 ha of fields here, according to documents from the 14th century. Deep and long ancient wine cellars scattered throughout the village and old wooden presses show the high wine production. The wine cellar lane Suchořádská zmola belongs to the most interesting places. Once there used to be ravine, it collapsed after heavy rain in 1900. The museum of Kobylí history and its inhabitants shows that today's life of the village is closely associated with viticulture and viniculture. You can see a permanent exhibition of traditional small-scale wine production with a wine store offering wine tasting of local winemakers. | www.kobyli.cz

7 ČEJKOVICE – the 1st written reports on the village from 1248 are associated with the existence of a fort built by members of the Order of the Temple. Templars started to cultivate vine and built a Gothic fort with extensive cellars with a length of 650m, one of the largest in the Czech Republic. Marvellous legends have always been told about the height, width and length of the Templar cellars and many of them have survived till now. Armed men on the horses and fully loaded carts could pass through the tunnels. You cannot see the secret corridor, which should lead from Čejkovice to Slovak's Skalice, but the wine cellar, used by Templářské sklepy Čejkovice for storage of vintage wines and maturation up to 350,000 litres of wine in oak barrels and barriques are open. The largest wine bottle in the Czech Republic is a rarity, 2 metres high with a volume of 200 litres and a diameter of 0.5 metres. The former Templar fort is used as a hotel, you can taste and buy the best wines from Čejkovice and surrounds in the Castle Wine Gallery. They say that Čejkovice wine cellars are among the elite wine buildings in the region. They are concentrated in several locations. The traditional centre is the lane rising from the road from the village Čejč toward the Kopeček, the other cellars with presses are located by the cycle path towards Vrbice and under the vineyards on the eastern edge of the village. Tomáš Garrigue Masaryk, founder of Czechoslovakia, spent part of his childhood in Čejkovice. A small museum is in the house where his family lived.

8 BOŘETICE – FREE FEDERAL REPUBLIC OF KRAVÍ HORA – Bořetice, like other villages in the area, has a wine tradition. The first written mention of the surrounding vineyards is from 1361. Inhabitants of Bořetice began to build cellars directly under the vineyard slopes, because between the village and vineyard slopes Kraví hora was a lake unto 1835. It is said that winemakers went to the cellars and vineyards in boats and the poorer ones had to paddle in a washtub.

A large cellar area is the pride of Bořetice till now. You can count about 260 wine cellars in double rows that gradually form a cellar village with several streets. You can go through the Horní and Dolní Frejd (so called hedges that once fenced the upper and lower border of the vineyard), Hliníky and Zahraničí. 15m high wooden tower, which recalls the village's victory in the national round of the competition Village of the year 2005, have stood above the area of wine cellars between Bořetice and Němčičky since summer 2006. It is easily accessible on foot or by bike from the cellar area.

Bořetice recess Free Federal Republic of Kraví hora attracts the attention of visitors. The local winemakers declared it to promote Bořetice winemaking in 2001. The Republic has a government, president, constitution, anthem, emblem, flag, postage stamps and currency and established contacts with neighbouring countries, such as the Valašské Kingdom.

The path, whose length can be adjusted according to your own taste, combines the wine villages Bořetice, Kobylí, Němčičky, Velké Pavlovice and Vrbice where blue grapes varieties are grown on more than half of the vineyards.

www.modrehory.cz

You can visit the places with unique views of the surroundings by bicycle or foot. The route follows the Moravian Wine Trail and is completed by 4 information panels with maps. You can also visit the pilgrimage place of local winemakers, the chapel of St. Antonín, and the wine cellars in the street Za humny. www.nemcicky.cz

11 CELLAR COLONY IN VRBICE – one of the uppermost villages on the Velké Pavlovice region is truly unmistakable and the tower of the neo-Romanesque church of St. Jiljí is possible to see from a distance of several tens of kilometres. Two locations of the local cellars were built in an interval of several centuries. The older colony Na sklepech, which consists of two lower floors of wine buildings in the village, originated in the second half of the 17th century. The wine cellars Stráž are better known, arranged in 5 terraces below the church, each level has its own name: Na vyhlídce, Podkova, Pod kostelem, Pod větrákem and Pod novýma. The first corridors were dug at the turn of the 18th and 19th century, presses with a stone facade were added in the middle of the last century. Local peculiarities are the Gothic pointed arches.

www.obecvrbice.cz

12 THROUGH THE REGION OF ANDRÉ ROUTE – A trail, named after the red wine variety bred in Velké Pavlovice, leads from Hustopeče through Němčičky, Vrbice, Bořetice, Velké Pavlovice back to Hustopeče. You can visit the lookout tower on Kraví hora in Bořetice, the lookout tower Slunečná in Velké Pavlovice, you can see interesting wine cellars in Vrbice. The 39.6 km long trail with a good surface is suitable for cycling, but you can also walk.

13 EDUCATIONAL WINE TRAIL OF VELKÉ BÍLOVICE – 5 km journey with views of the largest complex of vineyards in the Czech Republic, copies the Velké Pavlovice Wine Trail and will introduce you to the history of viticulture and vineyard sites in the vicinity of Velké Bílovice. Walk through the cellar area with 650 cellars, which is divided into three parts: Púryňky, Pod Předníma and Belegřady, where each cellar lane is named after various varieties of vine. Nice view of Velké Bílovice and surroundings opens from the Hradištěk hill, where there is a chapel dedicated to St. Václav, St. Urban and St. Cyril and Metoděj.

Penzion a sklep u Nováků

We are a small family winery that manages about 6 ha of our own vineyards. We try to do all the work in the vineyard and cellar with members of the family. The children are involved in the work as well – in particular, son Michal under the direction of his dad Stanislav. We built a cellar with a small hotel in 2014. The accommodation capacity is 33 beds. Most of the work here is done by wife Dana and daughter Dáša. We make part of the wine with primary aromas and less residual sugar. The second part is done in more traditional ways – with longer preliminary fermentation, fine lees-stirring.

Jaroslav Suský is the technologist and enologist of the company. All grape production is processed using quality and friendly technology. Wine, with a characteristic varietal character and aroma that still retains its terroir, is created thanks to this connection.

MORAVA (MORAVIA)

Wine Region

SLOVÁCKÁ

Wine Sub-region

Vineyards on the South-East of Moravia, on the border with Slovakia and Austria, have very diverse natural conditions. So the palette of wines from this sub-region is similarly diverse and varied, like its landscapes and distinctive Slovácko folklore. The most widespread varieties include Riesling, Müller Thurgau, Chardonnay, Grüner Veltliner, Pinot Blanc and Blaufränkisch. Pinot Gris and Moravian Muscat, bred in Polešovice, also thrive here, and the blue varieties Zweigeltrebe and Cabernet Moravia, originally from Moravská Nová Ves, have found a home here. You can taste VOC Blatnice in Blatnice pod Svatým Antonínkem. You will not forget the local legendary trademark wine Blatnický Roháč or similarly famous Bzenecká Lipka; named after an ancient lime tree in the castle park in Bzenec. Rounding out the list of VOC associations, we must not forget Slovácko, Mutěnice and Bzenec.

Many other places next to Uherské Hradiště, Kyjov or Břeclav are mandatory stops while travelling to meet wine. The jewels of Slovácko, for example, include the area of the historical Plže wine cellars in the outskirts of Petrov, proclaimed as the first conservation village area in the former Czechoslovakia in 1983, or the open-air museum in Strážnice, with an original complex of wine producing buildings. Worth seeing are the basement areas, reminiscent of small villages, such as Nechory by Prušánky, Šidleny by Milotice or Búdy by Mutěnice. You will find a charming heritage-listed complex of mills on the edge of Vlčnov, a village known thanks to the annual Ride of the Kings in May.

Wines from the Slovácká Wine Sub-region are accompanied by numerous festivals. For example, the Day of Open Wine Cellars in Mutěnice in April, Wandering around Blatnické Búdy in Blatnice pod Svatým Antonínkem in May, Bzenec Costumed Vintage Festival, Strážnice Vintage Festival and Slovácko Celebrations of Wine and Open Sights in Uherské Hradiště in September.

SLOVÁCKÁ Wine Sub-region

1 VELEHRAD – an important spiritual centre is also one of the most important pilgrimage places in the Czech Republic. The 1st Great Moravian archbishop, St. Metoděj, had his headquarters here according to legend. The 1st Cistercian monastery in Moravia arose at Velehrad in 1205. Its founder, the Moravian margrave Vladislav Jindřich, named it after the nearby village Veligrad. The 100 m long five-aisled basilica, once the largest church in the Czech lands, is decorated with many paintings, banners and valuable gifts of pilgrims from around the world. Baroque carved choir pews and the organ from the 18th century belong to the art treasures. The area of the courtyard, lapidary and chapel of St. Cyril and

Metoděj, colloquially called Cyrilka, are part of the pilgrimage area. Velehradská basilica was named Basilica Minor by Pope Pius XI. in 1927, Pope John Paul II. awarded the Golden Rose, a rare gift, which are boasted by France's Lourdes, Mexico's Guadalupe and Poland's Czestochowa, in 1985. The main pilgrimage takes place on 5th July on the feast of St. Cyril and Metoděj. | www.velehrad.cz

2 BZENEC – one of the first wine cooperatives was formed in a city with a long wine history. Its awareness comes mainly from the trademarked wine from Riesling called Bzenecká Lipka, which smells like flowers of the thousand-year-old linden in the castle park. You can still see it in Bzenec, apparently the oldest tree in Moravia with an estimated age of around 900 years. You can see the ancient wine cellars, for example, in the cellar lane in Baráky or under Starý hrad hill, which, with the newly erected chapel, the repaired hut, the sitting area, the statue and the illuminated stairs, has become nearly unrecognizable. The wine cellar area Na Těmické originated at the end of the 20th century.

3 KYJOV – apart from the Renaissance chateau with sgraffito decorations (the seat of Vlastivědné muzeum with permanent natural, archaeological and ethnographic exhibitions), your attention can be drawn by the lovely Renaissance town hall on Masaryk Square. You can visit it as part of a guided tour with a guide. The Slovácká galerie vín (Slovácko wine gallery) can be found in the underground – a wine store offering wines exclusively from the Slovácko region. A few cellars in Nětčice, in Vývoz in Boršov and the wine building Na Šišťotě in U Sklepů street recall the winemaking tradition. Once every four years, Kyjov becomes the scene of a folklore festival Moravian-Slovak Year, which belongs to the most popular ethnographic celebrations in Moravia. | www.mestokyjov.cz

4 PETROV – PLŽE – area of historic wine cellars on the western edge of the village Petrov stands out for its distinctive ground plan and visual character. Plže was mentioned already in the 15th century, built by the winemakers only with local and family help. They are embedded directly into the hillside and have no parts above ground, their width is usually around 3 m, length 15 m, rarely 20 m and more. Baroque cellars with white lime plaster and Slovácko ornaments create a street with 2 village squares that serve as community centres. You can find the oldest and artistically valuable objects around the top of the viticultural area. Plže was announced as the first village reserves in the Czech Republic in 1983.

www.obec-petrov.cz

5 POLEŠOVICE – local wine tradition originated when the village was the property of the Velehrad monastery. The wine breeding stations were established in the village in 1922. Varieties Moravian Muscat, Olšava or Amos come from here. The centre of Polešovice viticulture is the area U sklepů near the church and you can find more wine cellars in the Hřbitovní Street, at Zbořiska, at Zábrani and in the picturesque ancient streets Maruša. You can taste Polešovice wines at the Wine open cellars festival with the announcement of the results of wine competitions TOP wine of Slovácko in August, Feast in October and at the wine blessing in December.

The area with 450 wine cellars is divided into upper and lower Nechory, it has a square, a few streets, and even the guardian spirit Ochechula. | www.obecprusanky.cz

You will become familiar with the current technology of ceramic production, and you can try turning the potter's wheel, modelling and painting mugs or other goods with coloured glazes from your own imagination in the new workroom.

9 BLATNICE POD SVATÝM ANTONÍNEM – a village under the northern foothills of White Carpathians is a famous place of pilgrimage. The pilgrimage chapel of St. Antonín Paduánský on Blatnická hora was built in the late 17th century by Prince Hartman of Lichtenstein as a thanks for curing his son. The pilgrimage tradition together with the varied beauty of Slovácko costumes inspired painters such as Joža Uprka, who is also the author of the picture on the main altar in the church of St. Ondřej. The trademark wine Blatnický Roháč made Blatnice famous. It is named after the vineyard site Roháče. It is made from Riesling, Pinot Blanc and Sylvaner and as the 1st Moravian wine was awarded a gold medal at the International Wine Exhibition in Paris in 1896. You can visit the conservation reserve of Stará hora wine cellars or Plachty vineyard.

11 VELETINY – The character of the village with vine, grapes and wine knife documents centuries-old wine tradition. A complex of clay and brick presses with no cellars, called “búda” from the 18th to 19th century, has been preserved in the Stará hora area. Winemakers pressed wine, stored barrels and tools to cultivate the vineyard in this building, one of the oldest buildings of its kind in Slovácko. They still maintain cultural traditions and ancient customs, such as carolling of the Three Kings, parade of carnival masks, etc. in the village.

Another big attraction is the Strážnice Museum of the Villages of South-East Moravia. The route leads through the forest Kunovský les to Kostelany nad Moravou, Nedakonice and Polešovice, where the Moravian Muscat was selected. Then it continues through Vážany, Tučapy and Boršice to Zlechov and through Staré Město coming back to Uherské Hradiště. | www.slovacko.cz

17 WHITE CARPATHIANS – an extremely valuable natural landscape has survived in this area. It has been carefully cultivated by harmonious coexistence between man and nature for many centuries. In the protected landscape area of Bílé Karpaty, included among the European UNESCO Biosphere Reserve, a large amount of valuable habitats have managed to have been kept such as meadows in the beautiful nature reserve Čertoryje or extensive meadows and woods with a small number of protected and endangered species of plants and animals in the Jazevčí nature reserve. The highest peak of Bílé Karpaty is Velká Javořina (970 m). | www.bilekarpaty.cz

18 SUDOMĚŘICE – vineyards in the most southern slopes of the Bílé Karpaty in the Sudoměřice area are just a few metres from the border with Slovakia in the area known as Stará hora, about 3 km from the village. You can see the Starý potok wine area, a street of about thirty wine cellars right behind Sudoměřice. The amphitheatre and chapel of St. Urban from 1997 is in the area. The local specialty is the wine Frašták, refreshing wine made from Balkan variety Kadarka white. The functionalist tipple on the Baťa Canal also belongs among the local attractions. The technical building, in the typical Baťa style from 1939, was used to transport lignite coal from railway cars to the river boats that took them to the plant in Otrokovice. The tipple serves as an observation tower, with the possibility of an interior tour with expert commentary, today. A marina with boat rentals and refreshments is in the vicinity.

www.vyklopnik.cz

19 VRACOV – smaller farmers devoted to viticulture in Vracov in the past, and because of a lack of resources for own cellars, the tradition of common cellars was born. They served several families. For example, in the oldest cellar street in local part Baráky were 20 cellars where 600 winemakers farmed in 1926. Because of this amount it was important to organize everything well and Vracov cellars have always been a “second city hall” – it was even possible to solve the problems that everyone argued about at the town hall here. We can call cellars number 14 and 15, in the middle of colony, Parliament. One of its parts is the 70 m long Senate, one of the longest cellars in Baráky.

www.mestovracov.cz

WELCOME TO BOHEMIA

Vineyards in the Čechy (Bohemia) Wine Region belong to the most northern placed vineyards in Europe. Today, you will discover most of the vineyards in the surroundings of Mělník, Most and Litoměřice, as in the Middle Ages. Vineyards in Prague and its surroundings have survived as well. The vineyards in Bohemia are smaller and split over the territories of several regions instead of big and continuously planted vine areas. Legends are mainly the vineyards on protected slopes and terraces around the Bohemian rivers, especially in the valleys of Vltava, Labe, Berounka and Ohře. This is also a good area for blue varieties.

The Čechy (Bohemia) Wine Region was divided into six areas until 2004 – Čáslavská, Mělnická, Mostecká, Pražská and Žernosecká, after legislative adjustments left only two sub-regions – Mělnická and Litoměřická.

What can you look forward to in the Čechy (Bohemia) Wine Region? For example, to restored medieval vineyard terraces, on which vine is growing again, to the house with the tower in the shape of a wine glass, to a walk where St. Ludmila was teaching her grandson St. Václav to cultivate and produce wine, to the vineyards, small in size, but with extensive collections of varieties on the charming landscape of Polabí, guarded by the steep cones of České středohoří, to ancient cellars, wine presses, colourful traditions of vine harvesting and, especially, wine.

MOST FREQUENT VARIETIES IN BOHEMIA

WINE REGION ČECHY (BOHEMIA) IN A NUTSHELL

The Čechy (Bohemia) Wine Region, with its two sub-regions, is one of the most northern headlands of European viticulture. It includes 659 hectares of vineyards, which represents 4% of the vineyards areas registered within the whole of the Czech Republic. The remaining 96% is located in the Morava (Moravia) Wine Region. Viticulture in Bohemia had its golden age before the Thirty Years' War, when the vineyard area reached about 15,000 hectares and, in particularly fertile years, the domestic wine market was small for it. The current Čechy (Bohemia) Wine Region includes 75 wine municipalities and 171 vineyard sites.

The Čechy (Bohemia) Wine Region is divided into two sub-regions: Mělnická and Litoměřická. The areas are almost identical, but the vineyards of Mělník manage almost double the amount of growers. Most of the Mělník vineyards lie on soil with a limestone bedrock or gravel-sand sediment. The soil is lighter, warmer and provides excellent conditions for the cultivation of white and blue varieties. In the Litoměřická Wine Sub-region, most vineyards are located on the southern slopes of České středohoří, on dark soils of weathered basalt, which gives the wine distinctive mineral undertones.

The representation of the cultivated varieties slightly differs from Moravia. Red varieties are grown slightly more here. The local winemakers already grew the Pinot Noir variety plentifully in the Middle Ages. Another Burgundian variety also takes front place, however, Müller Thurgau, Riesling, St. Laurent, Pinot Gris and Blauer Portugieser are the top. The largest wine-growing municipalities are Mělník and Most.

ČECHY (BOHEMIA)

Wine Region

MĚLNICKÁ and LITOMĚŘICKÁ Wine Sub-regions

The Čechy (Bohemia) Wine Region is divided into two sub-regions:

The Mělnická Wine Sub-region includes not only Mělník and surroundings, but also tiny vineyards in Prague and around Kutná Hora, Benátky nad Jizerou, Kralupy nad Vltavou, Čáslav, Beroun and Slaný. In the Middle Ages, the local winemakers concentrated mainly on the cultivation of the variety Pinot Noir, whose seedlings, they say, Charles IV imported from the Chambertin, Burgundy village. The largest areas are planted with Riesling, the already mentioned Pinot Noir and Müller Thurgau varieties. The group of the five most grown varieties is closed by St. Laurent and Traminer.

The Litoměřická Wine Sub-region stands in the area of Litoměřice, Roudnice nad Labem, Kadaň, Ústí nad Labem and Louny. Litoměřice is an important centre of wine-growing, the second largest wine-growing town in Bohemia after Prague in the middle ages. Most of the vineyards in this sub-region are located on the southern slopes of České středohoří. Müller Thurgau, St. Laurent, Pinot Noir, Riesling and Pinot Gris represent the most widespread varieties.

An exposition at the castle in Litoměřice is devoted to wine. You may also notice the renewed vineyards on the terraces of Litoměřice walls and at the foothills of Hněvín above Most. You will see one of the Czech rarities from the top of the romantically modified castle with a restaurant and lookout tower - the Gothic church of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary, which was, due to the extraction of coal, moved from the non-existent old Most to the new location in 1975.

Many cities, such as Mělník and Litoměřice, Kadaň, Karlštejn and Roudnice nad Labem, as well as some districts of Prague, organize a lot of events associated with the wine, including vintage and gastronomic festivals throughout the whole year. Try, for example, Mělník Vintage Festival, Litoměřice Wine Festival, or Royal Wine Tasting Prague.
